Eileen McDonough, RPR, CRR Official U.S. Court Reporter 100 S. Clinton Street Syracuse, New York 13260 (315)234-8546 THE CLERK: Case is United States of America versus David J. Renz; 13-mj-9. Counsel, please note your appearance for the record.

MS. THOMSON: Tamara Thomson on behalf of the United States.

6 MR. GREENWALD: James Greenwald for David 7 Renz.

THE COURT: Ms. Thomson, I understand from our conference that the government's position with respect to detention has changed in light of the Pretrial Services report.

MS. THOMSON: That's correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So, Mr. Renz, notwithstanding the very serious nature of the charges that you're facing and what we have learned about your juvenile record, the government is prepared to agree to your condition of release, and I'm going to follow that recommendation and the recommendation of Pretrial Services.

But I want you to understand that we are going to set some very strict conditions with respect particularly to your use of the computer and your contact with minors.

And I am just very, very serious that I am going to tolerate no departures from those conditions, because the Court, frankly, has concerns about your release, and so you need to make sure you take these conditions very seriously and that you don't do anything, in spite of your obvious skills with computers, to try to get around those conditions. All right?

So, the first thing you need to understand is that you're going to be supervised by a Pretrial Services officer. That officer is there both to make sure that you succeed on the conditions of your pretrial release, but also to hold you accountable to those conditions. So, it is critically important that you cooperate fully with your Pretrial Services officer.

Secondly, you're going I think -- you expect to lose your job at Wegmans and, frankly, given the number of minors who work at Wegmans, I don't think that's a good place for you to work, but you'll need to look for alternative employment. And consult with Pretrial Services so they have some input and have a comfort level that the job that you find is consistent with the conditions of release and minimizes any unsupervised contact with minors.

You'll need to surrender your passport to the Clerk of the Court and not obtain a substitute passport.

Your travel will be restricted to the Northern District of New York, which is a 32 county area in Upstate and Northern New York going as far as Albany and some of the counties south of Albany to Auburn, not as far as Rochester or Buffalo. You'll get a little map that shows those counties. If you have any reason that you need to travel beyond those confines, you need to check with Pretrial Services first or have your attorney make a request to the Court to permit travel.

You're going to need to remain at an authorized address, the authorized address, and if for whatever reason you need to relocate, then you need approval of the Court or at least Pretrial Services.

Are you going to live with your mom, is that the plan?

THE DEFENDANT: I believe so, yes.

THE COURT: So, you need to -- basically, for whatever reason that situation has to change, then you need to consult with Pretrial Services and not just move somewhere else without prior permission.

You need to refrain from any excessive use of alcohol. It is also — there is not an appearance of any substance abuse issues with you, but obviously you need to not commit other state, local or federal crimes, which would include possession or use of any illegal controlled substances. The defendant is staying at Jamesville?

MARSHAL: No, sir, Cayuga.

THE COURT: Can he be released from here?

MARSHAL: Yes.

24 THE COURT: Okay, thank you. You will be -25 you're going to have a curfew that will require you to be home between 9 p.m. and 7 a.m. If for whatever reason, your job, that requires some variation in the schedule, we will work that out through Pretrial Services. Your curfew is going to be monitored by electronic monitoring and you need to make sure that you don't do anything to try to tamper or interfere with that pretrial monitoring, and under certain circumstances your finances allow you maybe to defray some of the costs of electronic monitoring. If you have any contact with law enforcement, you need to report that within 72 hours to Pretrial Services. So, a stop for traffic ticket or any contact with law enforcement, you need to report to Pretrial Services.

Now, with respect to computers, you basically are not going to be able to use any computer or access the Internet except to the extent that computer has got a monitoring program that is installed by the Probation Office. We've talked about various alternatives. I know your mom has a computer in her home that she uses for business, and after considering the various alternatives, we're going to require that the monitoring software be put on that computer. I also understand that your brother is home for a couple of weeks on school break. You're not allowed to use your brother's computer. You're not allowed to go to the library to use a computer. Basically, you can not access the Internet except on a computer which has this monitoring software on there.

All right?

Now, I understand you know computers and there may be ways around some of these things, but trust me, you know, if we have any whiff of the fact that you're trying to defeat the monitoring software or using a computer elsewhere or doing anything to circumvent the monitoring, then you're going to have a problem with me.

You also shall not subscribe to any Internet service without the approval of Pretrial Services. So, basically, to the extent -- I would suggest, frankly, you stay off the Internet as much as possible, but to the extent you use it, it's only on an approved computer and only with the monitoring software.

You also need to avoid unsupervised contact with any people under the age of 18. And so your choice of employment is going to be determined to some extent on whether minors are going to be frequenting that place or working at that place. And you also shall not frequent places where people under the age of 18 are likely to congregate. That would include schools, parks, video arcades, that sort of thing. The idea is to minimize whatever risk there may be to minors that you would come in contact with.

Do you understand all those conditions?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, I do.

7

1 THE COURT: And you're prepared to abide by 2 them? 3 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, I am. THE COURT: Trust me, I am deadly serious that 4 5 any deviations of any of these conditions, you're going to find yourself back here and likely be back in jail. 6 7 that you have family here. I know this is a difficult and uncomfortable thing for you, but you need to understand that 8 9 your son, if he is going to remain at liberty while these 10 charges are being addressed, is to comply with all these 11 conditions. So I ask you to, notwithstanding the 12 difficulties involved, to help him make sure he abides by all 13 those conditions and not enable him in any way to violate 14 those conditions. 15 Do you have any questions? 16 THE DEFENDANT: No, sir. 17 THE COURT: So you're going to sign some 18 paperwork which shows the conditions of your release. You'll 19 get a copy of that. You're going to be released from here 20 and then you'll need to work with Pretrial Services to get 21 this monitoring set up at your mom's house so that can be 2.2 accomplished before the end of the day today.

Anything further?

MR. GREENWALD: If the Court please, I've explained to Mr. Renz his rights with regard to a preliminary

1	hearing, and after consultation we're prepared to waive a
2	preliminary hearing at this time.
3	THE COURT: So, I will find that the defendant
4	has knowingly and voluntarily waived his right to a
5	preliminary hearing. So, upon execution of the release
6	paperwork, the defendant may be released on the conditions
7	set forth. Court is adjourned.
